

Abstract:

A remote control, operating an on screen STB menu, has a FSR for coarse or free navigation and a key-pad, placed around the FSR, for fine navigation. A user gets feedback by means of a highlighted item or an on screen cursor when operating the FSR and by means of the highlighted item for close by navigation. Pushing the FSR that doubles as an OK- or select-key, can result in the highlighted option selection.